

General Questions: Is there extra work involved in making an article open access?

A little, but this should be rewarded with more readers and extra citations. Consult the Sherpa Romeo website and decide how you will make your research paper open access. Then, either, submit a copy of the paper to a repository or complete the paperwork on the publisher ' s website to request that the article is published open access. An invoice will be sent to you for this additional publication cost.

Unique solution ID: #1028

Author: Repository Admin

Last update: 2012-10-24 15:34